

Loma Linda University Combined Internal Medicine-Pediatrics Residency Program

11175 Campus Street, Coleman Pavilion, A1121-B, Loma Linda, CA 92354

Program Name: Loma Linda University Internal Medicine and Pediatrics

National Resident Matching Program (NRMP) Code: 1024700C0

Size of intern class: 4

Application Process: via ERAS:

- We look at all the information within the application and then decide which candidates could be a good fit for our program. If there are any concerns or no contact from our program, please reach out to us.

Number and types of letters of recommendation:

- 3 letters of recommendation are required; no more than 4 are allowed.
- Department/chair letters are not required. We prefer letters to be written by writers that can speak to your clinical skills and character.

Application review/invite timeline:

- Applications are available for review by residency programs 09/27/2023.
- Your application should be as complete as possible by 09/27/2023. We plan to start to review applications that same day and will offer interview invitation shortly thereafter. We plan to interview from October through mid-December.

Approach to Step 1: Should have completed by time application submitted.

Approach to Step 2 CK: Should have been completed by time rank list is due for the match.

There are no absolute minimum cutoffs for the above scores as we take into consideration the entire application.

Post-Interview Communication Policy:

- No 'thank you' cards are required or follow up emails required, but if there are specific questions, those are more than welcome