

Advanced Concentration*

- CTropMed© certificate course and exam (University of Minnesota)
- American Society of Tropical Medicine and Hygiene (ASTMH) membership
- Health Emergencies in Large Populations (H.E.L.P) Certificate (Johns Hopkins University)

*The advanced concentration is financially supported for Deferred Mission Appointees.

"Preparing Loma Linda Doctors for Global Service"

Basic Concentration

- 1-2 months of international experience
- CTropMed© certificate course
- Mentorship with experienced global health clinicians
- Local community-based service opportunities

Loma Linda Global Service Concentration

Mission

To prepare Loma Linda Resident Doctors for global service.

The Loma Linda University Residency Medicine Programs uphold the mission of Loma Linda University, "To continue the healing ministry of Jesus Christ" and "Make Man Whole". Embracing service to the advantaged and disadvantaged here and abroad, our purpose is the formation of servant leaders committed to reducing global suffering and health disparities through academic excellence, robust research skills, and cultural humility.

Through the collaboration of multiple departments, the Global Service Concentration provides customized postgraduate experiences that prepare physicians for global practice and service. The concentration allows residents to provide health care in international and local service settings while achieving basic competencies in global health.

Requirements

Complete the online Clinical Tropical Medicine & Global Health Curriculum and In-Person Global Health Course

Complete an International Elective and Global Health Project and Presentation

Demonstrate Proficiency in Global Health and Cultural Ethics

Demonstrate all eight attitudes from AAFP Global Health Residency Curriculum

Global Service Group Monthly Meeting

- Second Tuesday of every month from 6:30 pm - 8 pm on Zoom
- Features engaging global health speakers or discussion

Conferences

- Consortium of Universities for Global Health (CUGH) Annual Conference
- Unite for Sight Global Health and Innovation Conference
- Global Mission Health Conference
- Loma Linda Global Healthcare Conference
- American Academy of Family Physicians (AAFP) Global Health Summit
- American Society of Tropical Medicine and Hygiene (ASTMH) Meeting

Goals

1. Equip physicians for short- and long-term missions abroad
2. Create a community that fosters service and personal growth
3. Promote a global framework on health care

Register Online

www.lluh.org/globalservice
Open to all Loma Linda Residents

Contact

N. Margarete Ezinwa, MD
NEzinwa@llu.edu